

Regional concentration differs across measured network layers

Notes: Binary references preserve node degrees. The weighted reference does not preserve node strengths.